

TANTIA UNIVERSITY
JOURNAL OF HOMOEOPATHY
AND MEDICAL SCIENCE

Editorial

Welcome Note By Editor

Dr Parveen Kumar

MD, Ph.D

Department of Human Anatomy

Director, Tantia University Sriganganagar, Rajasthan

Homeopathy is a therapeutic method using preparations of substances whose effects when administered to healthy subjects correspond to the manifestations of the disorder (symptoms, clinical signs, pathological states) in the individual patient. Research in homeopathy aims for assessment of remedies can be enhanced by dilution, in a procedure known as ‘dynamization’ or ‘potentization. The present emphasis of homeopathic investigation is on the evidence-based practices and universally recognized parameters, with exceptional stress on certification.

The journal is dedicated to encounter the requirements of readers and authors, to continuously improve the excellence content and preserving the integrity of the academic archives. It is determined to handle problems clearly by publications of responses reliable with recognized strategies. The Journal guarantees that researches published has ethical clearance, no conflict of interest and discourages plagiarism and copyright violations.