

TANTIA UNIVERSITY
JOURNAL OF HOMOEOPATHY
AND MEDICAL SCIENCE

Editorial

Homeopathic vision of health

Homeopathy is a system of natural medicine that has been in use worldwide for over 200 years. Homœopathy, the principles of the Inductive Method of Science as developed by Lord Bacon. The practice of Homœopathy is based on the concept of Symptom-Similarity, which is applied in medical science based on the third law of motion of Sir Isaac Newton i.e. Action and reaction are equal and opposite. Homœopathy, as a medical science, lay its foundation upon four general principles: Similarity, Contrariety, Proportionality and Infinitesimality, consigning to the universal principle of Homœosis, or Universal Assimilation.

Homeopathy is an alternative medical practice in which extremely dilute amounts of certain natural substances are used to treat various pathologies. This practice uses specially prepared, potentised medicines which are prepared after removal of toxic effects. Furthermore, when a patient is treated with an approach that considers presenting symptoms in various parts of their body; this will automatically result in cure of complete disease, hence, improves holistic health. This means that the homeopath considers physical, emotional and mental symptoms. Thus; this journal aims for encouraging and publishing various advancements in the field of homeopathic medicine.

Dr. Parveen Kumar

Director

Tantia University, Sriganaganagar